

Roz Martin

Martin Biotech

Roz Martin is the CEO and founder of Martin Biotech, developer and producer of the award-winning MedColl & Amphis Nutritional food supplement ranges. These are used and recommended by dermatologists and nutritionists, doctors, select pharmacies, medical spas, and premium spas to assist the body to age in a healthier and safer manner.

Roz worked in the pharmaceutical industry in the UK and Middle East for over 12 years. Her passion and interest for well-being, health and beauty has led to her setting up her own business. Her mission was simple – to create products that improve the health and function of the skin and body in a natural, safe and non-invasive manner.

The company's supplement MedColl is a unique Collagen Precursor formulation scientifically proven by UCD. It offers a safe and natural alternative to invasive dermal fillers and neurotoxin injections.

Amphis, the company's new marine food supplement range, offers a more comprehensive and holistic approach to maintaining skin, hair and nails, bone health and improving mood.

Martin Biotech is a nutritional company known for supplying high quality nutraceutical health products that deliver what they promise; are known for their scientific integrity; and their effectiveness for managing the skin and the body's ageing process in a safe and natural way.

The MedColl and Amphis product ranges have a loyal and growing customer base and can be found in over 250 pharmacies in Ireland, as well as in international markets including the UK, a number of other European markets, and the Middle East.

www.medcollbio.com

www.amphisbeauty.com

