Deborah Donnelly

Deborah Donnelly is a professional artist, author and designer. Her work is in many collections around the world including the Tate Galleries and Saachi galleries. She grew up in a house surrounded by artists and musicians and her mother is also an artist.

After graduating from the National College of Art and Design, Deborah headed straight to New York City, where she worked in NYC's biggest gallery as a ghost painter. This is where she learned the business of art. After NYC, she came back to Dublin where she opened her own gallery, while supplying several galleries in the UK.

Her pieces are collectable and can be expensive, and on opening her studio in Marlay Park in Dublin, she realised she needed more affordable pieces. Today her studio sells limited edition prints, notebooks, blankets and several other pieces. Deborah uses a bright colourful palette and is known for her quirky paintings. She has expanded the brand to many high-end shops and plans on opening more studio led shops this year.

Deborah has also published children's books and you can see her work in Duke Street gallery in Dublin, The Greenlane gallery in Dingle, Draught in Adare in Co. Limerick and The Anchor art gallery in Ardmore.

She also licences out her artwork to bigger brands and the plan is to go global with her bright happy pieces.
