

Jennie Haire

Your Wellness Collective

Jennie Haire is the co-founder of Your Wellness Collective, alongside Lisa Hughes. Your Wellness Collective is a health & lifestyle brand specialising in personalised supplements as well as private & corporate wellness experiences.

Every person's health is unique, so why shouldn't their supplements be? As registered nutritionists, Jennie and Lisa saw the need for credible, personalised supplement advice in the market. Your Wellness Collective provides customers with supplement advice that's tailored to their individual needs and health goals, without the overwhelm. Every brand and individual product on the platform has been selected for its high quality ingredients and effectiveness, so customers know they are getting the very best.

Your Wellness Collective serves the Irish, UK and EU market with its Personalised Supplement Plan service and retail offering. In addition, Your Wellness Collective has a wide variety of corporate clients from multinationals to small enterprises to whom it provides bespoke corporate wellness experiences that embody true wellbeing in the workplace, by empowering employees with practical nutrition and lifestyle advice to support their busy lifestyles.

Jennie and Lisa are also set to launch their own range of supplements in September 2023. Gigi Supplements Limited provides premium nutritional support for women at every stage of their reproductive life, from puberty to peri-menopause. Gigi is the next generation of female health.

Jennie began her career as a Management Consultant in PwC specialising in operational effectiveness and project management after having received a scholarship to complete an MSc in UCD Michael Smurfit Business School. She is extremely grateful having been selected to participate in the Starting Strong programme.

www.yourwellnesscollective.ie